

Solid blue boxes inside the outlined panel are stages of the single uno binary. Dashed boxes are inputs and external tools, and green boxes are outputs. For the benchmark, biosaur2 performed feature detection and both engines received the identical single-run feature table.